To the Future Historians of King George V School,

This letter serves as a commemorative record of the events that led to the preservation of a portion of our school's creative history. The journey began with the somber news of the passing of Talha Arooz. Moved by his loss and guided by a distant memory, I began a search for a specific KGV magazine that Talha had once illustrated - The Inside Info - published in 1982.

The eventual rediscovery of these magazines felt like unearthing a forgotten time capsule of our shared youth. Upon finding the collection, I shared several scanned pages with the KGV alumni email group. The response was immediate and profound; the nostalgic value of these records resonated deeply with my former classmates.

Notably, Tim Chow expressed an urgent desire to see the collection preserved in its entirety. This enthusiasm sparked a collaborative initiative to ensure that every page of these magazines is archived and shared with the wider KGV community. We hope that by securing these documents, we provide future generations with a window into the spirit and life of the school as it was during our tenure.

Honestas Ante Honores,
Stuart Ralston
